meet

Andrea Horwath

Leader of Ontario's New Democrats

Friend,

I've been a community organizer, city councillor and MPP in Ontario over the last 20 years. And now more than ever – I hear Ontarians calling for change.

As leader of Ontario's New Democrats, I am committed to delivering change that puts your family first.

Growing up in an auto-worker's family, I know how hard it can be to make ends meet. With the cost of living rising, and stable jobs scarce – balancing the household budget is harder than ever.

As a community organizer at a legal clinic, I learned the importance of public services like education, pensions and healthcare.

As a mother, I understand how important it is to plan for tomorrow. It's up to us to build a better Ontario and give our children a bright future.

When I visit Ontario communities, I hear you telling me that we need to change how things are done at Queen's Park.

To stop the no-strings-attached corporate tax cuts. Stop the insider politics. The outrageous hospital CEO salaries.

It's time for change that puts people first.

This October 6th, I need your support to make it happen.

Andrea Horwath Leader, Ontario's New Democrats

On Thursday October 6th – you have a choice. You can vote for a different kind of politics.

NEW DEMOCRATS WILL INVEST IN:

- ✓ Making Life Affordable
  Taking the HST off daily essentials like hydro and home heating.
- ✓ Job Creation
  Provide a tax credit for every permanent job created in Ontario.
- ✓ Strengthening Healthcare
  Cutting emergency room wait times, and capping hospital CEO salaries.
- ✓ Transit
  Freeze fares and expand local transit by having the province take on half of the municipal operating costs.
- ✓ Environment
  Helping you retrofit and conserve with a commitment to clean and renewable energy.

Information not exactly free-flowing in Canada

Country scores a mediocre grade in a study ranking access-to-info legislation

The world's first-ever access-to-information rankings are in, and Canada finds itself languishing in the middle of the pack.

In a ranking of all 89 countries that have access-to-information laws, Canada placed 40th. The modest ranking is largely due to Canada's aged legislation: The Access to Information Act hasn't changed much since 1983.

"Canada has gone from being one of the world leaders in this area to a middling country," said Michael Karanicolas of the Centre for Law and Democracy, a Halifax NGO that created the rankings with Madrid group Access Info Europe. "As other countries modernize, our ranking is going to slip further."

Canada scored 85 points out of a possible 150, tied with Montenegro and Estonia. Scores were compiled using seven categories such as right of access, scope, sanctions and protections, and appeals.

Analysis focused purely on legislation and not its implementation, Karanicolas said. That made for an unconventional top five: Serbia took the top spot with a score of 137, followed by India, Slovenia, El Salvador and Liberia.

"Countries that have had recent experiences with dictatorships or quasi-dictatorships tend to safeguard the right to information much more carefully," Karanicolas said. "You could make an argument that the reason why those countries are at the top is because they need those kinds of laws."

"Canada's lax timelines, imposition of access fees, lack of a proper public-interest override, and blanket exemptions for certain political offices all contravene international standards for the right of access."
STUDY EXCERPT

Fifteen of the bottom 20 countries are European. Most of them have older laws that are more limited in scope and have weaker appeals mechanisms.

Suzanne Legault, Canada's information commissioner, said her office is starting a review of the access legislation, which will lead to a recommendation to Parliament. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Ford steers clear of provincial election

TARA WALTON/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Mayor Rob Ford will not endorse any provincial leader or party in the Ontario election, a week away.

DECISION ONTARIO

That may be disappointment, or a big sigh of relief, you hear from the campaign of Progressive Conservative Leader Tim Hudak.

Mayor Rob Ford's office said Thursday the controversial civic leader will not endorse Hudak or any other provincial leader or party in the Ontario election a week away.

Neither Hudak, nor Liberal Premier Dalton McGuinty, nor NDP Leader Andrea Horwath made the necessary promises to fund subsidized child spaces the city can no longer afford, a Ford official said.

"The bottom line is we need the province to fund those spaces, and nobody said they will" in private meetings Ford had with each of them, said the official, speaking on background.

Facing a budget crunch, Ford had threatened to eliminate funding for 2,000 subsidized childcare spaces for low-income parents.

Parents challenge triple grade

Placing Grades 4, 5 and 6 students in one classroom will create more problems, parents say

Parents are challenging a teaching reassignment at Parkdale Public School that moved students from three grades into the same classroom.

A memo announcing the move to create split classes of Grades 4, 5 and 6 students was sent home with students last weekend and the shuffle took place on Monday.

"Usually when something like this is being considered, a parent advisory committee is invited to learn about it," said parent council co-chair Maja Rehou, whose daughter is a Grade 4 student in one of the new split classes.

"Nobody was invited, informed, anything. It was just like this is what's happening — bang."

Academics

- The move to have three-grade split classes has parents questioning how their children will fare academically in a three-curriculum classroom and how teachers will respond to increased demands on their time.
- It also has parents of younger children concerned about bullying. Maja Rehou, who said her 8-year-old daughter has experienced extreme bullying at the hands of older students, worries that the problem could get worse in a classroom with kids bigger and older than her.
- "She has needs that need to be addressed ... I don't see how this mix is going to be positive."

Raw-milk farmer fears the squeeze

Says he's on 'high alert' for visits, raids by Ministry of Natural Resources and the local public health unit

One day after an Ontario judged ruled his cow-share program is, in fact, illegal, raw-milk farmer Michael Schmidt vowed he would soldier on.

"I will stay the course," Schmidt said from his farm in Durham, Ont. "We will continue to build."

The decision, released Wednesday, overturns a lower-court ruling that found Schmidt's cow-share venture did not break laws against the sale of pasteurized milk.

For the past 21 months, Schmidt has been operating in the open, regularly providing those who purchased shares in his cows with jars of raw milk.

DAVID COOPER /TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Raw-milk farmer Michael Schmidt

"It was a nice feeling, these last two years, to have a sense of security," said Schmidt, who promises the blue bus, from which cow-share owners pick up their milk, will continue to park in a Richmond Hill church lot on Tuesdays.

"Now, I'm back into vulnerability, something I had hoped I could spare my family from."

Karen Selick, Schmidt's lawyer and litigation director of the Canadian Constitution Foundation, said she has written letters to various provincial ministries requesting they do not charge Schmidt, or others operating cow-share programs, while the issue continues through the courts.

"We stated that it would be injurious and would do irreversible harm, to Mr. Schmidt and the cow-share owners," said Selick.

"None of them have responded." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Click of their heels: Men rally to end violence

Mike Layton might have been a first timer at Thursday's third annual Walk a Mile in Her Shoes benefit for the White Ribbon Campaign. But the Ward 19 councillor, teetering precariously in a pair of stilettos, conceded the fundraiser wasn't his initiation into the perils of female footwear.

"If you grow up in a house with two women, your older sister is going to dress you up on occasion," said the Ward 19 councillor, as he prepared for the lunch hour trek from Dundas Square.

Not that those childhood experiences quite prepared him for the ordeal of squeezing his size-10 adult feet into a pair of pumps.

"It's pretty painful," he said. "My trick was to find a larger shoe and put a little padding in the toe. But that did nothing. It still hurts."

Layton, joined by about 500 male counterparts, including fellow councillors Joe Mihevc and Gord Perks, stoically walked the walk in support of the 20-year-old White Ribbon Campaign to end violence against women.

DAVID COOPER /TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

In the past 20 years, the campaign has spread to 60 countries. This year's Walk a Mile in Her Shoes was the third, as well as the first not to include one of its founders — Mike Layton's father, Jack Layton.

"My father was never one to take the easy road, so putting on a pair of these shoes was never much of a stretch," Layton said. "He was so proud of all that this campaign has accomplished, so I know he's smiling down on us saying, 'Keep up the fight.'" TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

The White Ribbon Campaign was forged as a response to the 1990 massacre of 14 women at Montreal's École Polytechnique.

- The campaign's early planning sessions were headquartered out of the then 11-year-old Mike Layton's bedroom.

Car takes nosedive through condo unit

A loud crash brought Maria Harley-Power outside on Thursday morning, only to find a car where her downstairs neighbour's door should be.

A grey Pontiac Vibe crashed through a barricade and into the entrance stairwell of a lower-level condo unit on Kennedy Road at Foxridge Drive in Scarborough Junction.

The elderly female driver of the vehicle was found conscious and breathing at the scene, Toronto police said. She was later taken to an area hospital, with non-life threatening injuries.

Neighbours said the "older couple," who live in the condo, were at work.

"Someone came by to say how-de-do."
RESIDENT MARIA HARLEY-POWER JOKINGLY EXPLAINING THE CRASH TO A CURIOUS BYSTANDER.

This intersection is dangerous with cars that speed regularly, Harley-Power said, with at least three collisions she can remember. She said the residents of the building had submitted a petition to their previous area councillor asking for a crosswalk to the bus stop across the road. But they were told that the traffic lights further up the road made it unnecessary, she said. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Shania fan asks to plead guilty

Trial in limbo as accused stalker seeks to reverse not-guilty plea ◆ It was the first time John Palumbo heard directly from Twain that his advances were unwelcome ◆ Started sending obsessive letters in 2009

WADE PAYNE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Shania Twain makes an appearance during the CMA Fan Festival in Nashville, Tenn. On Thursday, accused stalker John Palumbo announced his intention to plead guilty of harassing the singer at his trial in a Toronto courtroom.

The trial of a doctor accused of stalking Shania Twain took a dramatic twist Thursday morning when the defendant interrupted Twain's testimony to withdraw his not-guilty plea.

Addressing the pop star by her given name, Eileen, Dr. Giovanni (John) Palumbo spoke as the singer was testifying via video link.

"Eileen, you can trust me, I'm going to plead guilty," he said. "I've been offended too much, your honour."

Palumbo jumped up, made his comments and was handcuffed and led out of the courtroom at Toronto's Old City Hall as the judge called a 20-minute recess on the first day of the trial.

Palumbo, 51, an Ottawa medical practitioner, has been in custody since his arrest March 27 in Toronto. He faces charges of criminal harassment and breaching conditions to stay away from Twain.

Twain, wearing a white V-neck top and her hair in a ponytail, had been reading excerpts from letters sent to her by Palumbo in 2009.

She told the court she was "uncomfortable" with the tone of the letters and her concerns mounted in August 2009 when she saw Palumbo near her family cottage in Dwight, Ont.

Twain, 46, was testifying from an undisclosed location in Europe after a Canadian court ruled last month that she did not have to appear in person.

The trial had been scheduled to last for three days. But by Thursday afternoon, no one was sure what was going to happen — whether the court would accept the guilty plea or Palumbo would change his mind after he talks to his lawyer.

At the outset of her testimony, Twain was calm and composed as she was asked by the Crown to explain the process by which she would receive letters and flowers. She also confirmed that she lives in Switzerland when she isn't on tour.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ John Palumbo started writing to Shania Twain in 2009.

"(The letters) made me uncomfortable and a little bit sad, awkward. I felt bad that I couldn't reciprocate. I am a married woman."

SHANIA TWAIN, TESTIFYING BY VIDEO LINK FROM EUROPE AT THE TRIAL OF ACCUSED STALKER JOHN PALUMBO

Early on, she smiled at the camera. But her tone grew more serious as excerpts from love letters sent by Palumbo were read out in court and displayed on a large projection screen.

In one, Palumbo started: "Dear Shania, how are you? Have you received any of the letters I've been sending you?"

In a May 19 letter, he included a photo of himself and mentioned that he had seen her at an awards show in Ottawa.

"I was amazed by you since the first time I met you 15 years ago," Twain read from the letter, adding that the statement made her feel uncomfortable.

"I love you more than anybody else in the world could love you," the letter went on. "I will do anything and everything for you. I need you."

Palumbo, meanwhile, was dressed in a dark overcoat with a dark sports jacket underneath. With his shaggy grey hair cascading down the back of his neck, he watched the proceedings quietly.

This was the first time he had heard directly from Twain that his advances weren't welcome.

At one point she said she was "upset" that the accused had talked to her brother-in-law in Ontario as a means to meet her.

She referred to this as "manipulation."

Palumbo, who once made a six-figure salary and drove a Lamborghini, has said his marriage broke up around the same time as Twain's marriage to music producer Robert (Mutt) Lange, leading him to believe the two of them were meant to be together.

There has been no evidence to show Palumbo made direct contact with Twain and none to show any threatening conduct toward her.

Hudak and Horwath new BFFs?

‘I thought Andrea did a very good job in the debate,’ Tory leader says

DECISION ONTARIO

NDP Leader Andrea Horwath may just be Progressive Conservative Leader Tim Hudak’s new best friend.

As the final leg of the Oct. 6 election campaign begins and every poll shows the race is too close to call, Conservative strategists are hoping Horwath continues to peel away voters from the governing Liberals.

Some refer to her as the PC campaign’s cherished ally “just like Jack Layton was” in the federal election last spring.

Vote splits on May 2 helped propel Stephen Harper’s Conservatives to a majority, leaving the Liberals in tatters and the NDP as the official opposition for the first time.

The Hudak campaign hopes to replicate that phenomenon and Hudak has been enthusing about his new BFF, hailing her strong performance in Tuesday’s debate.

“I thought Andrea did a very good job in the debate,” Hudak said with an ear-to-ear grin after speaking to the Ottawa Chamber of Commerce on Thursday.

“Listen, what is going to help us? People want change,” he added. “They are asking themselves, can we afford another four years of Dalton McGuinty?”

But, Hudak added both the Liberals and the NDP are high-tax parties.

“We know the NDP will raise taxes. At least they are up front about it. At least the NDP is saying what tax they are going to increase,” he said, referring to how the NDP wants to hike corporate taxes.

“Dalton McGuinty is keeping his tax increase a secret for the time being.”

Hudak’s comments came after recounting his “five-point jobs plan” to a chamber audience and accused McGuinty of “pivoting” economic policy in a last-minute act of desperation.

Last Saturday, the Liberals quietly announced they were canning the Mississauga gas plant, which is already under construction, and moving it because of compelling opposition from local residents.

“Now we find out today we have some kind of brand new economic plan, seven days before the election that he has not talked about before this,” he said from a later campaign stop at Algonquin College.

“Why should we believe Dalton McGuinty anymore? This just looks like a Hail Mary pass from a desperate government one week before election day. Nobody believes it.”

When pointedly asked if Horwath is his comrade in arms, Hudak laughed and said, “You know, we differ on a lot of issues.”

NDP leader wants to be queen, not kingmaker

In Toronto, Andrea Horwath was asked if she was concerned that the better she does Oct. 6 could actually result in a right-wing government because vote splits could help the Conservatives by hurting the Liberals.

“No, I think that people really want to make their own choices. They’re tired of being told how to vote and how not to vote,” Horwath said after a radio interview where she joked that she wanted to be “the queen” rather than the kingmaker for Hudak or McGuinty.

The NDP leader insisted she’s “not sure we’re going to end up there” with a minority government after the election.

“I’m going to wait — give people the respect of waiting to see what their decision is,” she said.

Parties not taking poverty seriously: Coalition

Tim Hudak’s Progressive Conservatives have made no campaign commitments to help vulnerable children and families get ahead, says a coalition of anti-poverty groups that has analyzed the various party platforms for the Oct. 6 election.

But the Liberals, NDP and Greens offer only limited solutions to ending child and family poverty, according to the analysis by Ontario Campaign 2000, which has joined with the 25 in 5 Network for Poverty Reduction in calling for more political attention to the issue.

MICHAEL STUPARYK/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Mike Creek is co-chair of the 25 in 5 Network.

“The response has been underwhelming,” said Mike Creek, co-chair of the 25 in 5 Network, a coalition of more than 400 groups and 1,000 individuals dedicated to solving the problem. “I don’t think any of the parties are taking poverty as seriously as they should.”

“When the Conservatives completely ignore a problem that affects so many of our citizens, it just shows you how out of touch that party really is around social justice issues,” he added.

More than 1.2 million Ontarians are struggling to make ends meet, the advocates note. More than 150,000 households are on waiting lists for affordable housing, four out of five children have no access to affordable child care and provincial food banks recorded more than 1 million visits in the past year.

The party platforms were judged against four broad areas of need including: income security, fair wages and employment opportunities, social programs such as affordable housing and child care, and targeted strategies to fight poverty for those most at risk, including the disabled, natives, people of colour and newcomers.

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Poverty act

- All parties committed to fighting poverty in their unanimous support for the Poverty Reduction Act, which was passed into law in May 2009.
- But advocates say the parties need to tell voters how they would build on that commitment if they win the election.

Home reno credit will create jobs: Premier

Tax break covers up to $1,500 a year to install ramps, stair lifts, improve accessibility for seniors

DECISION ONTARIO

The provincial Liberals are taking "sensible, serious" steps to deal with the worsening global economy by introducing a tax credit for home renovations 15 months earlier than planned, Premier Dalton McGuinty said Thursday.

At a campaign stop in Pickering, McGuinty said the credit would create "immediate demand" for skilled labour, noting a similar federal program helped the country bounce back from the last recession.

"We're acting in a responsible manner, both in terms of what needs to be done and acting within the framework of our fiscal plan," McGuinty said.

But the measure drew sharp criticism from the opposition, who said it smacks of desperation.

"Everybody wants jobs and everybody's worried about the economy, but I think this is a last-minute attempt for the premier to try to pull more support from voters and I think it's something that people see it for what it is," NDP Leader Andrea Horwath said.

Introducing the credit early would cost an additional $60 million this fiscal year and another $90 million the next, an expense McGuinty said would come out of a $1.7-billion contingency fund his party has planned for every year of its platform. After that, the program will cost $120 million a year. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Horwath turns up heat on Liberals over cancelled power plants

FRANK GUNN/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Andrea Horwath

NDP Leader Andrea Horwath has fired off a letter to Auditor General Jim McCarter asking him to probe how much it will cost to cancel a proposed Oakville generator and stop work on one already under construction in Mississauga.

In a surprise move last Saturday, the Liberals announced that the Mississauga plant would be stopped and moved to a new location.

In a similar vein last October, the Liberals stopped an Oakville plant from being built.

"Clearly, both decisions carry fiscal risks with potential impacts on ratepayers and/or the fiscal position of the province," Horwath wrote Thursday, adding the public is in the dark on the costs associated with the policy shift.

The government has a legal opinion from an outside law firm that it could cost $1 billion to compensate TransCanada for its cancelled Oakville plant, but Grit insiders insist the tally will be far lower because one of the plants is being moved, not terminated outright.

MacKay in the hot seat

Liberals say they are considering formally requesting an ethics investigation into the defence minister's vacation rendezvous

Travel costs

- CTV News reports Peter MacKay has logged $2.9 million in travel costs since 2007 and is the most frequent flier on the government's Challenger fleet.
- CTV says documents it obtained through an Access to Information request show MacKay has taken 35 flights amounting to 247 hours aboard the Challenger since becoming defence minister.
- MacKay's spokesman tells CTV that MacKay only used the jets for official purposes, adding about half of those trips were taken so MacKay could attend repatriation ceremonies for soldiers killed in Afghanistan.

Newfoundland's Gander River offers some of the best Atlantic salmon fishing on Canada's east coast, but Defence Minister Peter MacKay may be asking himself if his 2010 vacation there was really worth it.

The fishing trip now has him on the hook in Ottawa for a host of possible political misdeeds and miscalculations, and the opposition calling for an ethics probe.

The latest problems emerged Thursday when the federal ethics commissioner Mary Dawson said it looked fishy that MacKay took a private vacation at the Burnt Rattle fishing camp, which is reportedly partly owned by the chairman of a Crown corporation that runs passenger and commercial ferries between Newfoundland and Nova Scotia.

"Do you see any potential (breach) with a minister of the Crown going to a luxury fishing lodge with a member of a Crown corporation board?" asked Liberal MP Scott Andrews at a meeting of the Commons ethics committee Thursday.

"Yeah, there could be contraventions in those areas," said Dawson

Word of the potential ethical lapse flows from revelations last week that MacKay called on a search-and-rescue helicopter stationed a short distance away to pick him up from his remote vacation spot so that he could take a government jet to an announcement in London, Ont., in July 2010.

MacKay says that he called on the crew of the Gander-based Cormorant chopper to perform a long-delayed demonstration, marrying his need for a ride with the air force's desire to show its political boss some of their life-saving manoeuvres.

The ethics commissioner says that she hasn't identified any ethical breaches or even looked into reports that MacKay was vacationing as a guest of Rob Crosbie, the chair of Marine Atlantic's board of directors.

She said under questioning that there would have to be "reasonable grounds of a specified provision that had been contravened" for her to preemptively open an investigation.

Crew not properly trained: Probe

The crew on a Canadian tall ship that taught international students about sailing were not properly trained themselves in how to handle certain types of rough weather, according to a probe into the sinking of the vessel off Brazil last year.

The Transportation Safety Board of Canada issued a report Thursday on the capsizing of the Concordia last February after it ran into heavy seas and stiff winds with 64 students and staff.

The board found the crew did not take appropriate measures, such as reducing sail or changing course, before the squall hit with winds of 56 kilometres per hour. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Iran's Sept. 11 theory ridiculous: Al-Qaida

Article says country is jealous of terrorist group's success Report says heat caused towers to collapse

▶ Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad

Al-Qaida has sharply criticized Iran's president over his suggestions that the United States government was behind the Sept. 11 attacks and not al-Qaida, dismissing the comments as "ridiculous."

During his trip to New York last week for the UN General Assembly, Ahmadinejad claimed in an interview with The Associated Press that explosive material and not planes brought down the World Trade Center. He stopped short of saying the United States staged the disaster, but said that as an engineer, he's sure New York's twin towers were not brought down by jetliners.

"A few airplanes without previous co-ordination known to the security forces and the intelligence community in the United States cannot become missiles and target the heart of the United States," Ahmadinejad said.

In an article posted online Wednesday in the terror network's English-language Internet magazine Inspire, al-Qaida rejected the Iranian leader's suggestions.

"Why would Iran ascribe to such a ridiculous belief that stands in the face of all logic and evidence?" asked the article's author, Abu Suhail. He said Iran wanted to portray itself as a country that stands up to the U.S.

Suhail cited a number of examples of when Iran allegedly co-operated with the U.S., including in the invasion of Afghanistan. He also said the Shiites in Iraq, who are supported by Iran, "brought the American forces to the country and welcome them with open arms."

NASA craft discovers hundreds of asteroids

NASA says it has found more than 90 per cent of the biggest asteroids that might pose a threat to Earth.

These are asteroids that are 1,005 metres wide or larger. The space agency said Thursday its sky-mapping spacecraft called WISE has discovered 911 of the 981 largest asteroids predicted by models.

Scientists say they now think there are fewer medium-sized asteroids than originally thought. They now estimate there are about 19,500 asteroids between 100 metres and 1,000 metres wide, down from 35,000.

Mexican drug violence blamed for gruesome crimes

Five severed heads left outside a primary school in Acapulco. Forty-nine bodies dumped on roads in the eastern port city of Veracruz. Two mangled bodies suspended from a pedestrian bridge in the border city of Nuevo Laredo.

In the last month, a spate of gruesome crimes in cities across Mexico has been linked to the country's growing drug-related violence.

Since 2006, nearly 35,000 deaths were connected to drug trafficking, according to figures released by the Mexican government in January, 2011. The killings reached their peak in 2010, jumping to 15,273 deaths from 9,616 the previous year.

Most of those slain were members of drug cartels, the U.S. State Department says, but innocent bystanders, police officers and military personnel are also among the dead.

GUILLERMO ARIAS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Santiago Meza Lopez, No. 20 on the FBI's most wanted list, allegedly helped a Mexican drug cartel dispose of hundreds of victims by dissolving them in acid.

Experts say this upsurge in violence dates back to December 2006 when Mexican President Felipe Calderón declared a war against drugs, deploying thousands of military troops in an aggressive crackdown, shortly after taking office.

Calderon went after the cartels' top dogs, but it was a strategy that only increased the violence, says Sylvia Longmire, a former officer in the U.S. air force and author.

Canadians travelling to Mexico are being warned to "exercise a high degree of caution due to a deteriorating security situation in many parts of the country."

Brigades wear out welcome

Tripoli residents want heavily armed revolutionary fighters out of capital

More than a month since revolutionary forces seized the Libyan capital, the heavy thud of anti-aircraft guns and the crackle of automatic weapon fire still echoes across the city, and bands of young fighters in pickup trucks bristling with heavy weapons cruise the streets.

Revolutionary brigades from across the country swept into Tripoli late last month in a stunning offensive, effectively ending Moammar Gadhafi's nearly 42-year rule and sending the longtime dictator into hiding.

While Tripoli's residents are still reveling in their newfound freedoms, they are also beginning to grow weary of the continued presence of hundreds of armed fighters in the city. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Peace talks stall over settlements

HAZEM BADER/GETTY IMAGES

▶ A Palestinian farmer holds olives from his destroyed trees that local residents say were broken and uprooted by Jewish settlers.

The Palestinians can't resume negotiations with Israel under current conditions and will pursue their bid to win UN recognition, a top Palestinian official said Thursday, after President Mahmoud Abbas and senior officials reviewed the latest appeal from Mideast mediators to restart talks and reach a deal within a year.

Last week, Abbas asked the UN to grant full membership to a state of Palestine in the West Bank, Gaza and east Jerusalem, lands Israel captured in the 1967 Mideast war. In a turning point for Palestinian diplomacy, Abbas overrode strong objections by the U.S. which, like Israel, argues that a state must arise from negotiations.

Since returning from the UN, both Abbas and Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu have tried to avoid being blamed for the deepening impasse.

The Palestinians say they can't be expected to negotiate while Israel keeps expanding settlements, thus pre-empting the outcome of a deal. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egyptian security raids Al-Jazeera office

Authorities claimed station operated without permits

For the second time this month, Egyptian security officials in civilian clothes raided the Cairo office of Al-Jazeera Live Egypt, part of the Qatar-based broadcaster's network, roughing up its staff, detaining an editor and confiscating equipment, the news chief said Thursday.

The raid comes after Egyptian authorities said the station and its staff were operating without permits; it also comes a day ahead of planned protests demanding a timeline for an end to military rule, in place since the fall of President Hosni Mubarak in February.

Activists are also calling for an immediate end to 30 years of emergency laws.

Since its inception in March, the station has been unique in that it has carried live broadcasts of all major Cairo protests.

Activists and rights groups view the raids on the station, which broadcasts live around the clock from Egypt, as part of a larger crackdown by authorities on independent media.

"Someone, an authority or an official, is clearly getting fed up with the newly acquired freedoms in Egypt," human rights lawyer Ahmed Seif el-Islam said in response to Thursday's raid.

Trains crash in Venezuela

Two commuter trains collided in a tunnel outside Caracas on Thursday, killing at least one person, injuring about 30 and leaving frightened passengers gasping for air in the dark, officials said.

One train suddenly braked due to a apparent malfunction and another crashed into it from the rear, causing the first to derail, Transportation Minister Francisco Garces said on state television. Officials said a packed train coming in the opposite direction was able to stop before colliding with the others, averting a possible disaster. The crash apparently cut power in the tunnel between Caracas and the suburbs of Los Valles del Tuy. Passengers "remained inside the wagons without air conditioning and within the tunnel," a source said.

Bahrain protester sentenced to death

Medical professionals charged with anti-state crimes, including attempting to 'topple the regime': Prosecutor

Bahrain's special security court on Thursday sentenced a protester to death for killing a policeman, and gave doctors and nurses who treated injured protesters during the country's uprising earlier this year lengthy prison sentences, a lawyer said.

Attorney Mohsen al-Alawi said the tribunal, set up during Bahrain's emergency rule, convicted and sentenced 13 medical professionals each to 15 years in prison. In addition, two doctors were sentenced to 10 years each while five other medics got five-year prison terms.

HASAN JAMALI/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The harsh sentences in the two separate court cases suggest the Sunni authorities in the Gulf kingdom will not relent in pursing and punishing those they accuse of supporting the Shiite-led opposition and participating in dissent that has roiled the tiny island nation.

Al-Alawi, who was the defence lawyer for several medics, said the 20 medical professionals and the protester who got the death sentence on Thursday can all appeal their verdicts.

ONTARIO DENTAL ASSISTANTS ASSOCIATION
ODAA
Sharing our pride. Shaping our future.

We're nearly there!

After sitting on the sidelines for so long, the ODAA (Ontario Dental Assistants Association) will finally have our turn in the spotlight! The Ontario government has agreed to consider the regulation of Ontario dental assistants, and HPRAC (Health Professionals Regulatory Advisory Council) will begin our review in November.

If regulation is passed, then all dental assistants must be formally educated to work in a dental office – rather than being trained on the job.

Regulation will mean that you can be completely confident everyone at your dentist's office is properly educated to protect your health and safety.

Did you know that dental assistants in eight provinces have been regulated since the '70s? You can help make the regulation of Ontario dental assistants a reality by talking to your MPP or visiting http://www.hprac.org/en/projects/Dental_Assistants.asp to share your thoughts.

Together we can ensure that Ontario families continue to receive the highest level of safe dental care.

Border proposal hits Canada's nerve

U.S. plans to ramp up security on vast border with fences and other barriers

The Opposition is blasting a "stupid" U.S. government proposal to build fences along the border with Canada to help keep out terrorists and other criminals.

"The American people don't see us as a threat," said Joe Comartin, the New Democrat justice critic. "When you get their security agencies just going off on this kind of a tangent ... well, quite frankly, it just makes me angry."

The U.S. Customs and Border Protection agency has proposed the use of "fencing and other barriers" on the 49th parallel to manage "trouble spots where passage of cross-border violators is difficult to control."

The border service is also pondering options including a beefed-up technological presence through increased use of radar, sensors, cameras, drones and vehicle scanners. In addition, it might continue to improve or expand customs facilities at ports of entry.

The proposals are spelled out in a new draft report by the border service that examines the possible environmental impact of the various options over the next five to seven years.

U.S. court tosses lawsuit

A U.S. federal appeals court refused yesterday to decide the constitutionality of the military's now-repealed "don't ask, don't tell" policy banning openly gay troops, saying the issue has been resolved since Americans can enlist and serve in the armed forces without regard to sexual orientation.

A three-judge panel of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco tossed out a lawsuit that had challenged the military policy as a violation of gay service members' civil rights.

In doing so, the appeals court also dismissed a Southern California trial judge's year-old ruling that the policy was unconstitutional.

The gay-rights group Log Cabin Republicans filed the lawsuit in 2004 challenging the policy.

The group recently argued the "don't ask, don't tell" should remain in effect because future administrations and lawmakers could reintroduce a ban on gay service.

Climate change to cost billions: Study

ENVIRONMENTAL FORECAST. Climate change will cost Canada and its people about $5 billion a year by 2020, a groundbreaking analysis for the federal government warns.

Costs will continue to climb steeply, to between $21 billion and $43 billion a year by the 2050s, the analysis says.

A hand for fauna, flora

- Hundreds of animals and plants advance toward protections in U.S.
- Comes amid backlash in Congress against endangered-species program

ALL PHOTOS USFWS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Among the animals and plants on the Obama administration's radar are, from left, the Casey's June beetle, the Pagosa skyrocket plant and the Texas kangaroo rat.

The Obama administration is taking steps to extend new federal protections to a list of imperiled animals and plants that reads like a manifest for Noah's Ark — from the melodic golden-winged warbler and slow-moving gopher tortoise, to the slimy American eel and tiny Texas kangaroo rat.

Compelled by a pair of recent legal settlements, the effort in part targets species that have been mired in bureaucratic limbo even as they inch toward potential extinction.

With a Friday deadline to act on more than 700 pending cases, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service already has issued decisions advancing more than 500 species toward potential new protections under the Endangered Species Act.

Observers said the agency's actions mark a breakthrough for a program long criticized by conservatives and liberals alike as cumbersome and slow.

"Here at a single glance, you see the sweep of the Endangered Species Act," said Patrick Parenteau, an environmental law professor at the University of Vermont. "They are moving through this large backlog at a fairly crisp clip now. This is the largest number of listing actions we've seen in a very long time, in decades."

Also among species that advanced for further consideration are 35 snails from Nevada's Great Basin, 82 crawfish from the Southeast, 99 Hawaiian plants and a motley cast of butterflies, birds, fish, beetles, frogs, lizards, mussels and more from every corner of the country.

Some have languished for decades on a "candidate list" of species the government says warrant protection but that it lacks the resources to help.

The flurry of recent action could help revive Obama's standing among wildlife advocates upset over the administration's support for taking grey wolves off the endangered list in the Northern Rockies and Upper Great Lakes, among other issues.

Bottled messages bring world home

Casting out messages in bottles is not a social experiment for Harold Hackett It's a dear hobby

Underneath his bed, stored in shoeboxes or tucked away into drawers in his Tignish, P.E.I., apartment are Harold Hackett's portals to other lands.

There are bags of homemade Newfoundland candy, seashore glass from the Bahamas, and an estimated 14,000 photos of children, boats, pets and homes.

But most importantly, there are the letters.

"I've got something like 3,300 back so far," Hackett says proudly. "From all over the world."

Around P.E.I. and increasingly around the globe, Hackett has become known as Message in a Bottle Man — the one who has set 5,000 bottled messages adrift into the Atlantic, one by one, just to see where they'll go.

"I put this bottle in the ocean from North Cape, P.E.I. When you find my message, please write back to me so I know where my bottle went. Please be sure to include the date on the bottle message in your letter and the date you found it. This is very important to me."

A FORM LETTER BY HAROLD HACKETT

To maintain that kind of volume, he's abandoned handwritten notes. He sends out form letters photocopied in one of six colours, leaving a blank space to print the date he sent it, and another for the recipient to record the date it was found.

The 59-year-old bachelor doesn't own a computer and spends much of his time at home on disability, due to a curvature in his spine. But through notes and packages sent from Africa, Ireland, South America, Russia, Germany, and more, Hackett has brought the world to him.

Game draws 71 million monthly users on Facebook

Pop stars are lining up to make their debut in Facebook games from online game maker Zynga.

First came Dr. Dre and Lady Gaga. Next week, an avatar of singer Enrique Iglesias will join CityVille, Zynga's most popular title.

Starting Tuesday, CityVille players on Facebook will be able to interact with Iglesias's character when he visits their cities. Starting Tuesday, they'll get to collect items the singer is known for and watch previews of his newest music video.

"I thought the fans would get a kick out of it."
ENRIQUE IGLESIAS

CityVille lets players build up and run virtual cities complete with farms, buildings and all sorts of infrastructure one would find in a real city. The game is free to play.

In addition to the Iglesias avatar and special items, the game will feature a new single, I Like How It Feels, featuring rapper Pitbull.

Top court to hear 'value for signal' case

The Supreme Court of Canada says it will step into the battle over whether broadcasters can charge cable and satellite providers for carrying their programs.

The high court has granted leave to appeal in a case that involves whether the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission has the right to establish a system that would allow broadcasters to charge for their signals.

The CRTC itself referred the matter to the Federal Court when it announced its plans for a so-called "value for signal" regime.

The Federal Court of Appeal previously ruled in a split two-to-one decision that CRTC had the power to set up such a system.

The cable and satellite industries are appealing the decision.

They argue that the value-for-signal issue falls under the Copyright Act and the royalties system and is beyond the jurisdiction of the CRTC.

S. Dakota governor supports pipeline

South Dakota Gov. Dennis Daugaard said Thursday he supports the construction of the proposed TransCanada Keystone XL pipeline that would cross the state as part of a project to deliver oil from Canada to the U.S.

Daugaard said the pipeline will create jobs in South Dakota, provide more than $10 million US in property taxes each year and provide a way to deliver oil produced in the state to refineries.

Ranchers along the route worry that the pipeline could leak and hurt their land and water supplies, but the Republican governor said he believes adequate steps have been taken to prevent serious leaks.

Copyright for Christmas?

Tories hope to fast-track carbon copy of bill that died with election

ADRIAN WYLD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Minister of State (Agriculture) Christian Paradis listens to Minister of Canadian Heritage and Official Languages James Moore speak about the proposed copyright law tabled in the House of Commons in Ottawa Thursday.

Canadian consumers are taking a back seat to the interests of big business and Washington in the Conservative government's reintroduced copyright bill, the opposition parties said Thursday.

The Tories, meanwhile, are framing their overhaul of the Copyright Act as essential to job creation and as clear direction for average Canadians who weren't sure of their rights before. The bill is a carbon copy of one that died on the order paper before the May 2 election.

The legislation was applauded by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and other business and creative-industry groups.

But one of the main concerns of groups representing consumers, universities and documentary filmmakers, among others, is a measure that would make it illegal for anyone to pick a "digital lock" installed on a copyrighted work.

For example, a person could not evade a digital lock in a DVD in order to burn it onto a computer hard-drive or iPad.

Those concerns are not reflected in the reintroduced bill, which the government hopes will pass by Christmas.

"The bill is not balanced yet, because they're saying as long as a corporation puts a digital lock and prevents you from accessing something you've purchased, (if) there's something that you need to use in school, (for example), well, that's too bad," said NDP MP Charlie Angus. "That's not balanced."

Liberal Heritage critic Scott Simms pointed to U.S. embassy cables, published by Wikileaks, that suggested Canadian officials were working directly with Washington on the copyright changes.

Australia has similar legislation on digital locks, but recently announced it was considering an exception for educational purposes — a student who wants to change a DVD into an MP3 for example. In New Zealand, it is not illegal to circumvent a lock if a copyrighted work is being used in a legal way.

The Canadian Internet Policy and Public Interest Clinic is one of the main opponents of the digital lock measure. Director David Fewer predicts the issue will land in the courts if the Conservatives do not deal now with what constitutes fair personal use by consumers.

TD sees an upswing for lumber

There is a light at the end of the tunnel for the Canadian lumber industry, TD Bank says in a report, suggesting that growing demand from China and a recovery in the U.S. homebuilding market will come late in 2013.

TD economist Leslie Preston said patience will pay off for the sector that is suffering with prices still 36 per cent below the previous cyclical highs.

"Moreover, after considerable restructuring over the past 10 years, the lumber sector is leaner and more competitive," Preston wrote in a report Thursday.

The sector was hammered as the bottom fell out of the U.S. homebuilding market and demand evaporated in the wake of the financial crisis.

The TD report said China now imports more lumber from B.C. than from the United States and anecdotally the B.C. government estimates that the U.S. and China each account for about 40 per cent of the province's lumber production.

However, Preston noted the fortunes of the lumber market still depend on the recovery of the U.S. homebuilding market.

RIM denies game over for PlayBook

Research In Motion said its PlayBook computer tablet will stay on the market and speculation that the tablet will be discontinued is "pure fiction."

Shares in the BlackBerry maker fell 4.3 per cent on the TSX Thursday after an analyst's report suggested RIM had stopped production of the tablet and was considering exiting that market after a staff reduction at a factory where the PlayBook is made.

Darlington review urged

Environmentalists argue panel lacked sufficient information to decide

A federal panel failed to complete the job of reviewing the environmental impact of new reactors at the Darlington nuclear station, four environmental groups told a court.

They've filed an application with federal court, seeking an order sending the issue back to the review panel. The panel filed a report in August, following several weeks of hearings last spring, allowing work on the reactors to proceed if certain conditions are met.

Greenpeace has joined in the application with Lake Ontario Waterkeeper, Northwatch and the Canadian Environmental Law Association.

Richard Lindgren of the environmental law association said that Ontario Power Generation, which will run the reactors, doesn't know who they'll hire to build them, or what technology they'll use.

"How can you meaningfully evaluate the environmental impact when you don't know what the reactor is going to be?" he asked.

TARA WALTON/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Darlington Nuclear Generating Station in Durham Region, where Ontario Power Generation hopes to build two new reactors.

Mark Mattson of Lake Ontario Waterkeeper said another issue is the cooling system the new reactors will use. OPG wants to suck in cold lake water, circulate it once through the cooling system and then flush it back out into the lake. That warms the temperature of the water, and kills marine animals, said Mattson.

He has argued that the cooling system should be a closed loop, with the warmed water cooled in towers and re-used.

IT'S SHIRTLESS NIGHT IN CANADA

THE METRO LIST

NEIL MORTON
METRO

1 Shirtless Ron MacLean?: Circulating this week is one of the more random photos ever: A shirtless Hockey Night in Canada host Ron MacLean is seen in a bar, wearing white pants and air-guitaring while holding a beer. Now people are split as to whether this photo was Photoshopped or not. Let's see Don Cherry's shirtless beer-air-guitar moves!

2 Rathika Sitsabaiesan cleavage: Still with Photoshop, Ontario NDP MP Rathika Sitsabaiesan attracted international attention this week when it was revealed on the website Contrarian.ca that her (by no means risqué amount of) cleavage was Photoshopped out of an image that appears on her page on the Parliament of Canada website. Wow, talk about political correctness.

3 BC Place reno: The $563-million reno'ed retractable BC Place stadium in Vancouver is by all accounts stupendous, right down to the transparent facade that runs the circumference of the stadium and allows spectators to take in mountain vistas. It opens Friday when the B.C. Lions take on the Edmonton Eskimos.

4 The Leap: Calgary's Chris Turner, author of the 2007 national bestseller The Geography of Hope, has a new book out this week. It's called The Leap: How to Survive and Thrive in the Sustainable Economy. It covers German green energy, Danish urban design genius, Toledo solar panels and so much more.

5 The Onion in T.O.: The brilliant news parody empire that reports wryly hilarious fake news now has a local edition in Toronto, where it's available free in newspaper boxes starting this week. Nothing in this item was made up.

6 YouTube TV shows: YouTube really is vying to be your new TV set. Word is the video giant is finalizing contracts with a bunch of "channels" to feature regularly scheduled programs on themes like sports, entertainment and fashion by 2012. My grandchildren someday will be like, "What's that flatscreen in your man-cave for, grandpa?"

7 Queen: Queen's Roger Taylor is creating a live touring show to begin next year that will pay tribute to the band. He's launched a talent search to find people to star in the show. One of the audition tapes makes it seem as if Freddie Mercury has risen from the grave.

8 Emotional bag check: If you're looking for somewhere to unload your emotions, a new site called EmotionalBagCheck.com might come to your emotional rescue. You can vent there, and some kind stranger will suggest a pick-me-up song in reply so as to get you going again. And everything will be all right. Well, for five minutes at least — the time it takes to play, say, Coldplay's Fix You (it's the No. 3 recommended song).

9 Message in a Bottle: Since 1996, P.E.I.'s Harold Hackett has sent out more than 4,800 messages in a bottle. Dude's hobby has an amazing batting average, as he's received more than 3,100 responses from all over the world. So if your Internet's ever down and you're jonesing for social media, just go old school and use this method of reaching out.

Eight Nobel peace laureates called the Green Energy Act "the single most effective piece of legislation promoting renewable energy in North America."

It's unfortunate that PC Leader Tim Hudak is threatening to dismantle the GEA if he gets elected — all for short-term political gain when thousands of good jobs and a clean-energy economy are at stake. The worst part is Mr. Hudak is failing to address what he would do instead. Expensive, volatile nuclear? Dirty coal? TYLER HUNT, TORONTO

All of the other leaders are committing to progress for clean energy, but PC Leader Tim Hudak is promising to sacrifice the thousands of good jobs created by the Green Energy Act and make Ontario more reliant on dirty, dangerous forms of power.

Any politician who threatens to scrap thousands of automotive jobs would be laughed out of office. Why should our reaction be any different now that many of Ontario's hard-working men and women who used to make auto parts are now building solar panels and turbines? JULIE LAPALME, OTTAWA

Frank and Louie the cat was born with two faces, two mouths, two noses, three eyes — and lots of doubts about his future.

Now, 12 years after Marty Stevens rescued him from being put to sleep because of his condition, the exotic blue-eyed rag doll cat is not only thriving but has made it into the 2012 Guinness Book of World Records as the longest-surviving member of a group known as Janus cats, named for a Roman god with two faces.

He is "very, very laid back, not afraid of people, very friendly and he's actually more of a dog than a cat," Stevens said, adding, "It's funny because people walk up to him thinking it's a nice, fluffy white cat and they're walking up with a big smile on their face to pat him, like, 'Oh, what a beautiful cat' and I see a look of horror come over their faces when they actually see his face." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Synopsis

- Anna Faris is Ally, a young Bostonian with a bad relationship track record. Weeks before her sister is to wed she reads an article that suggests the number of sex partners a woman has had will predict her romantic success later in life. More than 20, it says, and you have virtually no hope of settling down. She realizes she's in the danger zone. To not go over 20 she revisits all her ex-boyfriends in hopes of finding a husband.

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE & MARK BRESLIN
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

It's all in the numbers

Anna Faris shines as the lead in What's Your Number? despite a lacklustre raunch-com script ◐ Movie's attitudes about sex a little dated for 2011

Richard: Mark, I'm not going to suggest What's Your Number? is a great, or even good movie. It has a typical rom-com plot gussied up with some Judd Apatow style barbs and some gratuitous shots of its almost naked star but it also has Anna Faris, and for me that's enough. She has crack comic timing and an unpredictable way with a line that takes a Kathryn Heigl level script and turns it into something watchable. What did you think?

Mark: Without Anna Faris, this movie would have gone directly to the DVD bin. She's so good I was able to sit through the movie and actually laugh a few times. But I resent the movie for wanting it both ways: on the surface it seems like a raunch-com but underneath beats the heart of the typical story of a young woman who just wants to get married and settle down. And by the way, since when did bedding 20 guys in your entire life make anyone a slut? Maybe if they were all at once...

RC: Ha! Spoken like someone who has the updated edition of The Joy of Sex handy. It's a strange movie that uses both the standard old cellphone switcheroo plot device and rape jokes. It doesn't have the laughs of an Apatow movie or the heart... but once again, I'll say it, it has Anna Faris.

MB: It also has Chris Evans, in a stock role that only his agent could love. But I did feel there was some genuine chemistry between him and Ms. Faris, especially in the scenes where they get hot 'n' sweaty. Romantic comedies like this one usually have a number of well acted, well written secondary characters, but they were completely absent from this picture, unless you count Andy Samberg's great and ridiculous cameo.

RC: A love scene with a puppet and Andy Samberg is just one of the things — did I mention Anna Faris? — that make this movie almost special. There are just enough funny scenes (and shots of Evans's abs) to almost make this an in-the-pocket rom com, but then the good stuff is followed by long stretches of by-the-book writing. It's a shame to see this kind of potential wasted.

MB: I also resented the dated sexual politics of the movie. The male lead can sleep with as many partners as he likes and he's a rake. If a woman like Faris tries the same thing, she's a slut. This is old-school thinking, and shame on the movie for buying into it, and not challenging it.

Scene in brief

David Beckham says his new baby girl is nothing like his three sons. The 36-year-old soccer star says three-month old Harper Seven is already sleeping through the night and is "a lot calmer" than his boys were at that age. Harper's three brothers are also on dad's side when it comes to her eventual dating life. Beckham says he plans to be "overprotective in every way possible."

Breakaway
Genre: Comedy
Director: Rob Lieberman
Stars: Vinay Virmani, Rob Lowe
●●●
A harmless story about a young Indo-Canadian striving against his immigrant family's ideals to become a pro hockey player, Breakaway is an impressive first feature for writer and star Vinay Virmani. Not only does he land a likeable international cast including Rob Lowe and funnyman Russell Peters, but he and director Rob Lieberman mostly keep it light-hearted with broad gags and a Bollywood musical number to maintain a fun pace. ● STEVE GOW

50/50
Genre: Comedy
Director: Jonathan Levine
Stars: Joseph Gordon-Levitt, Seth Rogen, Anna Kendrick
●●●½
Cancer is no laughing matter, everyone knows that. But 50/50, the story of Adam (Joseph Gordon-Levitt) a clean living guy diagnosed with a rare form of cancer, breaks taboos left and right. Luckily it's tempered with great performances, a smart script and real emotion. There's not a false moment thanks to a script written by Will Reiser, the real-life inspiration for the story. Reiser — along with actors Gordon-Levitt, Anna Kendrick and Seth Rogen — find just the right balance between mortality, romance and cancer jokes in a script that will have you laughing and crying at the same time.

Machine Gun Preacher
Genre: Action
Director: Marc Forster
Stars: Gerard Butler, Michelle Monaghan
●●
Machine Gun Preacher is, if nothing else, a cautionary tale for other filmmakers: Just because your source material is inherently captivating and thrilling doesn't mean your movie will be by default. The film takes the harrowing true story of Sam Childers and reduces it to a plodding, by-the-numbers biopic strangled by its own chronology. And the source material is pretty impressive: Childers, an ex-con and recovering drug addict, finds Jesus and heads to Africa for some missionary work. But when he's confronted with the horrors of war-torn Sudan, he launches his own crusade to rescue orphaned children, becoming a folk hero and target for rebel forces. ● NED EHRBAR

Bellflower
Genre: Action
Director: Evan Glodell
Stars: Evan Glodell, Tyler Dawson, Jessie Wiseman
⊕⊕½

Bellflower takes the DIY indie dramedy and incinerates it, trading quirk for carnage and in some respects, even pushes its narrative into horror film territory. Director Evan Glodell casts himself as an oddball outsider obsessed with the film Mad Max 2. Along with his equally fixated pal, the two build flamethrowers, weapons and an armoured car, lost in their daydreams of a divine apocalypse. That is until a girl — of course — enters the picture and throws off their cheerfully deranged existence. Bellflower is certainly unique but there isn't a likeable character in the mix. It's an interesting film, but a hard one to like.

Poetry
Genre: Drama
Director: Lee Chang-dong
Stars: Jeong-hie Yun
⊕⊕⊕⊕

A lengthy Korean drama about a sexagenarian coping with a delinquent grandson and her own health crisis through a long-lost desire to write, Poetry displays filmmaker Lee Chang-dong's proficiency for capturing the heartbreaking subtlety of ordinary lives. Well-acted and emotionally provoking, Poetry may be gradual but it is gratifying in the end.

STEVE GOW

We Were Here
Genre: Documentary
Director: David Weissman
Stars: Ed Wolf, Paul Boneberg, Daniel Goldstein
⊕⊕⊕⊕

We Were Here chronicles the rise of AIDS in San Francisco's Castro district, giving historical perspective to what was once thought of as a "gay cancer." Told through first-hand accounts from the people that lived through the epidemic's early years, their stories of losing not just friends, but entire social circles, is heart-wrenching. Coupled with attitudes outside the community that ranged from apathetic to downright hostile, this is really the story of how a community was brought together by a common tragedy.

IAN GORMELY

Restless
Genre: Drama
Director: Gus Van Sant
Stars: Mia Wasikowska, Henry Hopper, Ryo Kase
⊕⊕⊕½

Gus Van Sant's latest ode to youth takes a decidedly somber turn, chronicling the love between troubled teen Enoch and terminally ill Annabel (Mia Wasikowska) who meet at a memorial service. The film is definitely moving — though with subject matter like this it would take a pretty artless hand to make it anything but — and Wasikowska turns in yet another sweet and nuanced performance.

NED EHRBAR

The Last Circus
Genre: Comedy
Director: Alex de la Iglesia
Stars: Carlos Areces, Antonio de la Torre
⊕⊕⊕

Álex de la Iglesia's The Last Circus is one of the most arresting films of this or any year. It begins at the last days of the Spanish civil war, when a little boy witnesses his gentle clown father, ripped from the circus, handed a machete and forced at gunpoint to attack rebels in full clown gear. This berserk film's story is a metaphor for contemporary Spain.

CHRIS ALEXANDER

A Matter of Taste: Serving up Paul Liebrandt
Genre: Documentary
Director: Sally Rowe
Stars: Michelle Micale
⊕⊕⊕

There's nothing in this profile of the titular New York City chef that other kitchen-set documentaries haven't done before, but there's still pleasure in watching a brilliant talent do his thing. If Liebrandt's reputation rests on his unconventional epicureanism, it doesn't make him the most unique documentary subject: he's a perfectionist, surprise surprise. Still, the dishes he prepares are incredibly photogenic, and Rowe's camera captures them in loving, succulent close-up.

Hugh Jackman, star of Real Steel, says he was the dunce at drama school

RICHARD CROUSE
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Hugh Jackman must be the envy of his drama school's graduating class. Between the opening of Real Steel this weekend and the end of 2013 he'll star in six films ranging from The Wolverine's high octane action and the high notes of Les Misérables to the high comedy of Movie 43.

It seems apt that he'll also soon be starring in The Greatest Showman on Earth because he can do it all — in between action movies he can out-sing-and-dance anyone on the circuit — but it wasn't always that way.

"When I started acting I was the dunce of the class," he says.

Success in school, he says, came because of his work ethic, a trait he picked up from his father.

"He never took one day off in his life," he says. "Now, he had five kids he was bringing up on his own. If anyone deserved a day off it was my old man, but he never did. I learned that from him.

"There's always that feeling of, 'I have to work harder than everybody else. I'm not born Phillip Seymour Hoffman. I've got to just work harder and I'm prepared to do it."

Being the youngest of five children also contributed to his outlook. "I always wanted to do stuff and not be left out," he says, but adds, "I was quite a fearful kid, which I hated.

"I've always had a fear of fear. It's a weird to think back now but drama school, it is a pressure kind of situation. People get kicked out of drama school. You are constantly being judged on how you are doing, are you progressing, are you not.

"Almost everyday you had to get up and do a monologue. Sing a song. Do it in front of everybody.

"I noticed I was always first. I never wanted to sit there waiting.

"I'm not saying that out of courage. It was too uncomfortable to sit, stewing. I don't think I've told anyone else that."

Later, fear of unemployment pushed him to expand his talents.

"When I came out of drama school I was like, 'I'm going to do anything I can just to keep working.' In drama school you do Shakespeare to movement to circus skills to singing all in one morning. I know a lot of people hated it but I reveled in it. I loved it. It's weird how it evolved."

Toe-to-toe with Sugar Ray

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

For Real Steel, boxing legend Sugar Ray Leonard was tasked with both choreographing big robot-on-robot boxing matches and training Hugh Jackman to play a convincing trainer and former boxer.

But we at Metro thought he could use a real challenge: critiquing my boxing abilities. Leonard was a great sport about it. As for me? Well...

Sugar Ray Leonard: What's your best punch?

Ned Ehrbar: Um...

SRL: Show me your guard. [Ned stands up, puts up his fists.] You're a southpaw?

NE: No, I'm right-handed. [Ned switches position.]

SRL: Stand your regular way. OK, OK. Now jab. [Ned punches.]

SRL: When I say jab, I don't want you to do this. [punches slowly] If you did that to me, I'd see it coming a mile away. I had time to go to the bathroom before that punch lands.
It's like this. [Sugar Ray throws a quick succession of jabs.] Speed is relaxing. Speed is like... [Sugar Ray hits Ned in the gut three times.]
That's the key. It's having the ability to relax and just let your hands go. I mean, naturally you're a big, strong guy...

NE: Well, I'm big.

SRL: Right. [laughs] Power comes from speed, you know what I mean? But you? You're OK. But don't over-think it. It's like, visualize sneaking up on someone. That's the movement. But then you have to keep working at it and keep working at it until it becomes natural.
That's where the power comes in. I don't want to overwork you and tell you too much, but the key is balance and relaxing. You've got pretty good form, but your intentions are too tight. You've got to loosen up.

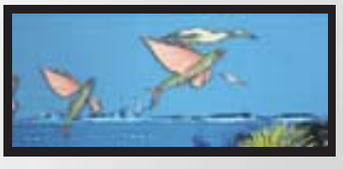
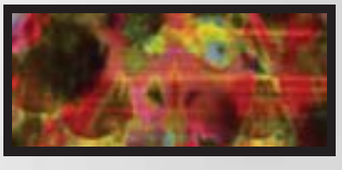
drift : the elements

6 animations = 12 hours of art on the TTC
Starting at 7pm on Saturday October 1st





Six artists explore their own interpretation of the four fundamental life-giving elements through experimental animation.

Participating artists:
Claire Bennett; Evan DeRushie & Hercinia Arts Collective; John Halfpenny; Heather Harkins; Craig Marshall; Lynn Wilton.

DRIFT: the elements will dominate the underground tunnels for 12 straight hours for Scotiabank Nuit Blanche, bringing art to over one million TTC commuters on the Onestop screens, without interruption from the usual news and ads.

All six animation can also be viewed online at www.onestopallnight.com

James Blake took the booming bass of dubstep, blended it with minimalistic writing, and the sound resonated with the masses

PAT HEALY
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN BOSTON

The first thing you notice when you hear James Blake play live is that he is a compelling songwriter. The next thing you probably notice is a sub-bass sound so deep that it will make your insides swim.

The singer says he first realized how to harness the power of sub-bass when he was recording a cover of the Feist song, Limit to Your Love. "It was just pretty intriguing at the time," he says, "and I got obsessed with the effect, physically, that sub has on you, and loved to use it."

You played so many different fests this summer. Do you ever check out other acts?
I was fascinated by Odd Future at SXSW.

To me, it looked like that festival kind of broke them. They did really well to show people what they can do. I saw them twice. The second time it took me a while to get in. It was like ridiculous hype, to the point that I don't think I've ever seen before.

Some might argue that the hype around you is close.
I just think it's a different kind of hype. It's gone at different speeds and I think they're burning at a different temperature.

It has been interesting to watch the online thermometer, so to speak. There was the hype and then there was the backlash … I loved the backlash. It was really cool.

Oh yeah? Why?
Because once the backlash happened, there was a backlash against the backlash, and it was really interesting to see. To be honest though, I'm not really part of it. I think that's what I've liked about it.

You don't have a Google Alert with your name?
I don't think anyone can say they've never done that, but I think it just matters so little to the creation of music what six million Internet people think that it didn't really bother me too much.

But from what people told me, for every negative thing that was written, there were about 100 positive things.

There are so few lyrics in your songs. After performing them over and over for the past year, do you get …
Bored?

No, I wasn't going to say that, I swear. Do you find you get something entirely different out of the few words?
I love it, actually, because singing something that is so distilled means that you have to really care about it while you're singing it.

How different is your new work?
I think it's getting more outward. I've come quite a long way, personally and musically in the last year or so. I've had a lot of new experiences, I've been to a lot of new places, I've met a lot of new people and listened to a lot of new music. That's what touring does. I think my music has kind of developed. I think it's better? I don't know.

Jagger gets off his cloud

Frontman takes a break from Stones and an artistic risk with all-star group

Mick Jagger and Eurythmics founder Dave Stewart acknowledge that they took a gamble when they decided to form their all-star band, SuperHeavy. They had no idea if all the group's members, which include soulful singer-songwriter Joss Stone, Oscar-winning composer A.R. Rahman and reggae singer

Damian Marley, would even have chemistry.

"We were just making music and if we didn't like it, we wouldn't use it," Stewart said. "We just did it because we wanted to do an experiment, and that got developed and more and more developed until in the end, this record appeared."

The result is a 12-track, self-titled album with a sound the group's members say cannot be placed into any specific genre. Jagger's legend was formed with the Rolling Stones and other successful musical collaborations, but he says none of that can be compared to his experience with SuperHeavy.

"Every time you get into a room even with the same people, it is different be-

COMING UP WITH A BAND NAME IS NO EASY TASK

SOUND CHECK

ALAN CROSS
SCENE
@METRONEWS.CA

One of the most hideous tasks of being in a band is coming up with a name. Consider:

1. Everyone in the band has to be happy with it. Good luck with that. Many baby bands have broken up because they couldn't agree on what to call themselves. Finding that consensus is torturous.

2. It has to be catchy, easy to remember and easy to spell. Your name is your brand, so it has to be something that captures the essence of the group's sound and image without sounding too stupid or pretentious.

3. Can you get the domain name? Before the Internet, this never used to be a problem. But if you're going to have a proper online presence, you need a proper Internet address. Oasis had to make due with Oasisinet.com (notice the extra "i" because a dating site already had Oasis.com and wasn't about to give it up.)

4. It must lend itself to good graphic design. Hey, if you can't make a cool logo from it, then you're limiting your appeal. Nine Inch Nails, Linkin Park, Led Zeppelin and the lips-and-tongue logo of the Rolling Stones are all brilliant examples.

5. And, most importantly, it has to be unique and unused by anyone anywhere in the world currently or in the past.

cause people come up with different things. It was a really interesting collaboration. To be honest it was easy. It was really easy because we got things straight away. You are very soon encouraged," he said.

Jagger, Stewart, Stone and Rahman recently sat down for an interview with The Associated Press.

What were you looking for in picking members of this group?
Jagger: One thing serious that we did think about, we didn't want people with loads of entourages and that would have too big of egos. ... It is very quickly how human beings sort of adjust to each other's temperaments and creativity. It is just like being in a cocktail party with a group of people. Either the cocktail party is going to go well or it doesn't. It depends on the vibe.

Rahman: I don't know why they called me, first of all. I thought maybe they wanted my piano playing or my keyboard, or a string arrangement.

Musically, you were all pushed, working outside of your usual genres. Mick, you rapped?
Jagger: I was just copying Damian. I do a little bit. I went toasting, we call it, but it is the same thing (as rap).

Damian was doing this really good toasting, West Indian rapping, so I thought, "I could do that. It can't be that difficult." It actually was quite difficult. With a bit of practice, it is all right. It is a laugh.

Stone: It is funny. Sometimes listening to Damian talk would give me a melody. ... It helped when I couldn't come up with anything, I would just listen to Damian and have a little chat in the corner.

What was that first recording session like, getting all of these people together with different sounds from different backgrounds?
Stewart: What is unusual is having five writers who are songwriters, known for songwriting, all writing in the same room together at the same time. Writers are often known to be on their own, looking at the sea, out the window, with a pen or playing piano on their own. Then you have five people all staring at each other that are all used to writing songs, but that have to do it in front of each other now.

Sounds Like. State of Shock

Dinner date — with whom and why?
Kadooh: Big Bird.
Cam: Humpty Dumpty. That'd be a great omelette. Or Colonel Sanders. I could go for some chicken.

What's your greatest fear?
Kadooh: Erectile dysfunction. I'm going with that.
Cam: Not a lot of fears, per se, 'cause everything's just kind of a risk in life, and I guess if you don't try it you're not gonna learn what not to do and what not to try. But I guess losing a loved one is my biggest fear.

What's your idea of a perfect day?
Cam: Somewhere on tour in front of a lot fans, playing a great show and having everyone singing back at you. Just having a good time — sitting back with the band and having some beers, probably poolside somewhere.

To view Metro's interview with Cam & Kadooh, visit metronews.ca/scene

Where do you find inspiration?
Kadooh: Day-to-day life and people along the way.
Cam: Fans coming up to you after shows and saying that a particular song really meant something to them.

What's the last thing you say to yourself before a show?
Cam: Too late now!
Kadooh: Good luck.

Your last meal — what is it?
Cam: Chocolate. Everything chocolate. Chocolate cake, chocolate ice cream ... 'cause at that point, the intolerance doesn't matter.

Grammy-winning DJ feeling good about new album

The French producer collaborates with Chris Brown, Usher and Jennifer Hudson on his fifth studio release

David Guetta wasn't chasing a monster hit when he crafted songs like the Kelly Rowland-assisted When Love Takes Over and the Black Eyed Peas' I Gotta Feeling.

The French DJ-producer was relatively unknown to most Americans, and he didn't feel much pressure to make the tracks Grammy-winning, international smashes — though that's what the songs went on to become.

"(I had to get) in the mindset of before, when we were just partying, without thinking, 'Is this going to be a hit?' (I was) trying to just have a good time," he said.

"It worked (and) I think this album is better than the previous one."

Guetta's double album, Nothing But the Beat features one instrumental offering, and a second with top acts like Nicki Minaj, Usher, Jennifer Hudson, Chris Brown, Lil Wayne, will.i.am, Sia and others.

Was it hard to not feel pressure creating this album?

It's just that now it's different because I have a name, so when an artist comes to work with me, maybe they're thinking, 'This will be big.'

But even with Usher, for example, we've been trying to work together for a long time.

We had one or two sessions, and it was good, but not 'Wow. Amazing.' And we said, 'Let's wait till we have that 'wow' record.' And now we have this huge record that everyone thinks is one of the biggest records of my life and Usher was really excited about it.

Nicki Minaj appears on two songs. What was it like working with her?

Oh listen, I am so proud of her on Turn Me On. She's huge here and known for her rapping, but I don't think people thought she could deliver in terms of singing like on Turn Me On. It's crazy. She sounds amazing.

This is like top, top level singing. And when I worked with Jennifer Hudson, I was also taking her out of her box because it was like a very different style for her, but everybody knows that she has that huge voice.

But I think for Nicki Minaj to show this — it's really big.

Did you work with her twice because the first session went so well?

Exactly. That's what happened: it went so well I was like, 'Wow.' I wanna work more with her, too, producing for her album. I think she's really amazing.

Was there anyone you didn't get a chance to work with?

Not really to be honest. I feel very lucky.

Do you sing or rap?

No (laughs). I'm really, really terrible. I don't have enough ears to be the perfect singer, but I have enough ears to know that I'm not good.

Southern rock with breathing space

Don't compare them to The Kings of Leon or The Avett Brothers — NeedToBreathe has its own style

MARK HUMPHREY/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NeedToBreathe has a problem with preconceived notions.

The band is a brother act from the Carolinas known to favour the banjo — but they're not The Avett Brothers.

Bear and Bo Rinehart are the sons of a preacher who started playing music in church. But they're not The Kings of Leon.

The release of their fourth album, The Reckoning, should clear things up.

The album debuted at No. 6 on the all-genre Billboard 200 this week with 48,500 copies sold and is something of a mission statement for a group looking to make its mark on the wider consciousness.

They love Southern rock and want to be identified that way. They've been conscious of putting their own stamp on their latest album.

"We've always hated being pigeonholed in some way," Bear, 30, said.

"Mainly because we're worried about the future. We don't want to put a record out where people are expecting a certain thing, they get something else and they're not willing to go with us on the journey. That's the thing for us, trying to develop fans who believe in the band rather than the one song or the genre."

Comparisons weigh on the band and it was among the things foremost on their minds when they entered the studio. They considered every note, every instrument and every lyric as they crafted the 14 songs.

They put a great deal of pressure on themselves, hoping to make their own version of a classic album — something like Damn the Torpedoes by Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers or Rumours by Fleetwood Mac.

Those kind of expectations led to long hours in the studio and very familiar bickering.

"We still fight a tremendous amount, I would say," Bear said.

"We were fighting just before we came in here," the 29-year-old Bo joked.

"You're working with family — especially with me and Bo writing the songs. So it's an artistic thing and I think you'd get into an argument with anybody. But then you bring in the whole background of the family thing and all this history."

That history starts in Possum Kingdom, S.C.

By the age of 12 they were playing rock 'n' roll in their father's Assembly of God church, where they learned about amps and effects pedals.

"And it was cool," Bo said. "I say this a lot: You see a lot of bands that grow up in church or their dad's a preacher. It's not like you can play in a club when you're 12. Where else can you play music?"

They quickly began writing their own songs and eventually enlisted longtime friends Seth Bolt, 27, on bass and drummer John Stillwell, 31.

Currently, they're in the midst of a six-month tour opening for Taylor Swift

Forget leaving Las Vegas, Sir Elton is back

A three-year show deal called Million Dollar Piano draws legend to City of Sin

Elton John is returning to Las Vegas for a three-year headlining gig at Caesars Palace.

The five-time Grammy winner performed Wednesday night for the first of 16 shows scheduled through October titled The Million Dollar Piano.

The remainder of the shows during the three-year run have not yet been announced.

John says it's named for the instrument he'll play during the show — a piano that took manufacturer Yamaha four years to build.

"It's going to surprise a lot of people," John said of the instrument earlier this year.

"This isn't like the old days," he said of the show. "It's going to be certainly different from anything you've seen from me before, as was 'The Red Piano,'" his previous show at Caesars.

His return comes more than two years after that five-year stint ended. The run was planned for three years but was extended because of demand.

The Red Piano included risque imagery — with high-tech videos and inflatable props — plus the hits John has become known for during a career that's spanned more than 40 years.

John is one of music's most decorated stars, known for songs including Candle in the Wind, Rocket Man and Bennie and the Jets. He was knighted by Queen Elizabeth II in 1998, inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in 1999 and honoured by the Kennedy Center in 2004 for his lifetime contributions to performing arts.

Getting inside a killer's head

FRINGE. The mind-bending universe of Fringe appears to get more complicated on Friday as the Fringe teams work together on a serial killing case.

The murderer "over there" is building an impressive body count, but the case takes an interesting turn after the murderer's alternate identity "over here," a forensic psychologist, is brought into the investigation.

This opens up the possibility of transporting civilians from one universe to the other. (Citytv)

Getting thrown for little loop

SARAH MICHELLE GELLAR. There are dual personas over on Ringer, as well on Friday, where Sarah Michelle Gellar tackles the roles of a pair of twins in peril. Things get tense between Bridget and Andrew after she uncovers some information about him. Meanwhile, Agent Machado looks for Bridget, and Henry and Gemma argue over an investment. (Global)

Prime Suspect, take two

HOMICIDE. The North American reboot of Prime Suspect airs as part of the jam-packed Thursday night lineup but gets a second life Saturdays for those who missed it or forgot to program their PVR.

In this episode, Jane helps with Duffy's homicide and kidnapping investigation and also meets Matt's little boy. (Global, NBC)

A closer look at Celine Dion

CANADIAN ICON. Celine: 3 Boys and a New Show promises to offer viewers an intimate look at Celine Dion's hectic life as she prepares to headline a new Las Vegas show while tending to her newborn twins.

The 90-minute special airing Sunday shows the legendary artist taking care of the babies, helping her eldest son with his homework and spending quality time with her husband, Rene.

All this unfolds while she works on launching her Caesar's Palace spectacle, Celine. (OWN)

A real mystery man

Michael Emerson moves on from Lost with gritty gig on Person of Interest
Plays a presumed dead former-CIA agent who doles out vigilante justice

IAN JOHNSTON
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Playing characters shrouded in mystery is becoming old hat for actor Michael Emerson, best known for his Emmy-winning turn as the inscrutable Ben Linus on Lost.

Now he's back in Person of Interest as Finch, a shadowy computer genius who sees the future.

"Once again, just like on Lost, I'm not sure where things are going. I'm just winging it, which I'm happy to do. It makes you anxious to read each script."

MICHAEL EMERSON, ON HIS CHARACTER IN PERSON OF INTEREST

Emerson ain't as lucky. Like the audience, he's not sure what future episodes will reveal about his new character.

"Once again, just like on Lost, I'm not sure where things are going," laughs Emerson.

"I'm just winging it, which I'm happy to do. It makes you anxious to read each script."

Emerson stars with Jim Caviezel in the fast-paced Person of Interest, which comes from the minds of writer Jonathan Nolan (The Dark Knight) and co-producer J.J. Abrams (Lost).

Part cop show/part sci-fi thriller, the series follows troubled CIA operative Reese (Caviezel) and the mysterious Finch as they attempt to solve murders — before they actually happen.

"They're a terrible odd couple. But they have to live through this series of hair-raising adventures," says Emerson, who sees very little of himself in Finch. So far.

"Well, I like to dress up and Finch is a smart dresser," he laughs. "Don't know enough about him yet."

Making the transition from Lost's beautiful Hawaiian backdrop to the decidedly grittier New York setting has been easy for Emerson, whose acting resumé includes stints on Broadway.

He refers to the change as switching from "my second favourite island to my favourite one".

"It's turned out to be fun. We've shot over all the five boroughs. It's been like an obscure tour of unknown New York City."

Emerson admits that, as much as he loved his experience on Lost, he wasn't exactly unhappy when the show finally wrapped in 2010 after six seasons. That attitude may be changing.

"At the time, I was glad Lost was over, and glad to get back to the mainland," he says.

"But recently I've been beginning to feel a little island nostalgia. I might be ready to go back."

Are we less OK with TV gay?

Study finds fewer gay characters on broadcast and cable scripted shows in the TV season ahead

The number of gay and bisexual characters on scripted broadcast network TV has dipped slightly this season to 19 out of nearly 650 roles, according to the Gay & Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation.

The 16th annual Where We Are on TV report released Wednesday by GLAAD found that 2.9 per cent of actors appearing regularly on prime-time network drama and comedy series in the 2011-12 season will portray gay, lesbian or bisexual characters.

That's down from three per cent in the 2009-10 season and 3.9 per cent last season, when there were 23 out of a total of nearly 600 roles.

The 2008-09 season saw an increased representation of 2.6 per cent. Only five of the 19 gay and lesbian characters this season are non-white, GLAAD found.

Using information provided by ABC, CBS, Fox, NBC and CW, the group reviewed 91 scripted series announced to air this season.

Among broadcast series with gay and bisexual characters, GLAAD cited CBS' The Good Wife, the CW's Ringer and NBC's The Playboy Club. Comedies include ABC's Modern Family and Fox's Glee.

Fox leads the networks in gay representation, with eight regular characters out of a total of 117.

The number of gay and bisexual characters on cable networks has also fallen slightly, from 35 last season to 29 in the upcoming season.

Some of TV's most popular shows "weave story lines about gay and lesbian characters into the fabric of the show," said GLAAD acting President Mike Thompson.

"Americans expect to see the diversity of our country represented in their favourite programs, and that includes gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender people." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HBO leads

As it did last year, HBO has the greatest number of gay and bisexual characters, with 11 regular and recurring characters.

- Showtime is close behind with 10.
- The HBO drama True Blood remains among the most inclusive series on television, featuring six characters, tied with the Showtime series Shameless, according to the study.

Is Demi headed back to real-life Cougar Town?

Reports say Demi Moore and Ashton Kutcher's marriage is almost done

FRAZER HARRISON/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Ashton Kutcher and Demi Moore

The marriage between Demi Moore and Ashton Kutcher is reportedly all but over, with just a potential $290 million divorce battle standing in their way, according to Star magazine.

Kutcher's alleged frolicking in San Diego last weekend — during their sixth anniversary — was apparently the last straw.

"Ashton was a serial cheater, and Demi just couldn't take it anymore. She didn't deserve to live that way. It's a painful time for Demi," a source says.

"It was definitely a long time coming, but they're finally done for good."

And if the couple's recent trip to New York was any indication, the split has been in the works.

"As far as I know, Demi ended up staying at her place on the Upper West Side and Ashton was (at the hotel) by himself," a source says.

"It was obvious to everyone around them that things were completely over between them and that they are just putting on a show until they officially split."

Does Jay know what girls like?

Beyoncé admits that her pregnancy might be driving a wedge between her and husband Jay-Z — at least where his cologne is concerned.

"I smell everything," she tells ET Canada. "If it smells bad, I smell it. My husband's fragrance, his one that I always love, I hate right now."

And while the pop star claims to not know the sex of the baby, sources tell Us Weekly that the couple has already picked out some pink Louboutin baby booties — and a name.

"Jay told his sister to order a whole wardrobe of baby-girl clothes," a source tells Us Weekly.

Recreating Rioja's vibe

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA
TWITTER: @THEREALWINEGUY

If you love wine and have never been to Spain, you need to pack your corkscrew and go. I raved earlier this year after my first visit, but I can't stop.

Wine to the Spaniards is like beer to us Canadians — especially in region of Rioja. You hit town with your peeps, pick a local wine bar, have a glass of red along with a little tapas, move on the next spot and repeat.

You can recreate the vibe at home. The internet has dozens of sites dedicated to tapas recipes and Rioja wines are easy to find.

The Montecillo 2008 Crianza ($14.95 - $19.99) is a perfect introduction. Aged over two years, the juice is fresh and lively with a well-balanced cherry fruit and cedar-esque wood expression. It's a perfect partner for croquettes and empanadas and would make a great turkey wine for the up-coming Thanksgiving holiday.

Creature Garnish

Here are decoration ideas for Egg Salad Creatures.

- Hair
  Grated or string cheese, grated carrots, sprouts or curly lettuce
- Eyes
  Olives, cucumber, pickle slices or raisins
- Nose
  Slice of gherkin, pickle, pieces of carrot
- Mouth
  Wedge of cherry tomato, carrot or celery stick
- Ears
  Sliced cucumber or tomato
- Whiskers or antennae
  Carrot or celery sticks or sweet pepper strips

Preparation:

1. Peel and finely chop hard-cooked eggs and place mixing bowl. Add mayonnaise, mustard, and salt; stir gently together until combined.
2. Mound egg salad in two round scoops on plates.
3. Using pieces of vegetables, cheese, olives, pickles, etc., make features or body parts, create silly creatures or faces. (To make creature and face in photo, use cucumber slices for ears or body scales; wedge of cherry tomato for mouth; pieces of carrot for whiskers or tail; piece of string cheese for hair; raisins and sliced gherkins or olives for eyes; and cherry tomato or piece of cucumber for nose.) Serve with crackers.

Simple corn and pancetta salsa transforms sautéed bay scallops
Grapefruit and Crab Salad uses Thai techniques to create side dish

This simple dinner is for those nights when you want something amazing but don't have the time or energy to be amazing in the kitchen.

In this recipe, the ingredients do all the work for you. Juicy bay scallops need nothing more than a quick trip in a very hot pan. Dressing them up calls for little more than browning some pancetta (buy the already chopped variety), then mixing in some fresh corn, onions and seasonings. Serve this over rice or buttered toast as an open-face sandwich.

Preparation:

1. In skillet over medium-high, sauté pancetta until lightly browned, 6 mins. Use slotted spoon to transfer pancetta to medium bowl. Stir in onion, jalapeno, lemon juice and cilantro. Remove corn kernels from cobs. To do this, stand each ear on wide end, saw down length of cob with serrated knife.
2. Add corn kernels to salsa. Season with salt and pepper, then set aside.
3. Return skillet with pancetta drippings to medium-high heat. When pan is hot, add scallops and sauté for 3 to 4 minutes or until cooked through. Season scallops with salt and pepper, then serve with some of the corn salsa spooned over them.

Dishcrawl
We are enamored with this concept. Toronto's first Dishcrawl has finally arrived, and the night of feasts is Oct. 5. Of course, we can't say where it will be – the meeting location isn't announced until two days prior – but we do know the Dishcrawl will be taking a tour of four restos on Queen West. Basically, you grab a ticket, meet up, and check out some culinary awesomeness.

Cobble together your golf game

The road into Cobble Beach dips and bends and is nearly swallowed up by the vastness of Georgian Bay.

A lighthouse rises above the water just off the apron of the 17th green.

A fresh breeze starts to brew and white caps beginning to form, ready to slap down hard on the rocky shoreline that runs the length of the 18th fairway.

Cobble Beach is a first-class golf course that has been earning its own accolades since opening in July 2007.

Perched 10 minutes north of Owen Sound on the west side of Georgian Bay, Cobble Beach Golf Links was spearheaded by the father and son duo of Willis and Rob McLeese.

On every hole, you get glorious glimpses of Georgian Bay and challenges around every corner.

▶ Tampa Bay's Evan Longoria hits a walk-off homer to clinch the AL wild-card on Wednesday night.

Jim Leyland was still dazed a day later. So were baseball fans everywhere, trying to explain one of the wackiest wrap-ups to the sport's regular season.

Pitch by pitch, the playoff picture flipped. Startling collapses and stunning rallies left fans bleary-eyed and a little exhausted.

Midnight came, along with more madness. When it was over, Tampa Bay and St. Louis were in, Boston and Atlanta were out.

It was a harrowing task just keeping track of the four teams vying for wild-card berths in the National and American Leagues on Wednesday, the final day of the regular season.

Leyland, the 66-year-old manager of the Detroit Tigers, was riveted watching Boston and Tampa Bay play their games.

"You can't explain this to people, the emotions in baseball. Even from our side. Just watching it. We became fans," Leyland said. "I don't know how it all happened. I still don't. But it was amazing."

The Yankees took a 7-0 lead into the eighth inning. But the Rays somehow rallied to make it 7-6 before little-used Dan Johnson — batting only .108 this year — launched a tying, pinch-hit home run with two outs and two strikes in the bottom of the ninth.

Evan Longoria ended it in the 12th with a homer just inside the left-field foul pole for an 8-7 win that gave the Rays the AL wild-card spot and capped their rally from a nine-game deficit against Boston in the final 3 ½ weeks.

Ace Red Sox reliever Jonathan Papelbon took a 3-2 lead into the ninth at Baltimore. He was one strike away from finishing when the Orioles struck, and Robert Andino hit a single that left-fielder Carl Crawford couldn't quite snag. The Orioles won 4-3.

The Braves let their last chance get away, too. Ahead of St. Louis by 10 ½ games in late August, Atlanta went into the final day of the regular season tied with the Cardinals for the NL wild-card.

St. Louis won early, leaving it up to the Braves. But rookie closer Craig Kimbrel blew a ninth-inning lead against Philadelphia, and the Phillies wound up winning 4-3 in the 13th.

"My mind was rushing," Kimbrel said. "Things started moving too fast. My head started moving too fast. My brain. I didn't put it together. It was just too late." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Banana tosser 'mortified': Lawyer

A London, Ont., man who threw a banana at a black hockey player during a shootout was only trying to keep his favourite team in the game and had no idea his actions could be construed as racist, his lawyer said Thursday.

Faisal Joseph said Chris Moorhouse is "mortified" and overcome with remorse for the incident.

Joseph said Moorhouse, 26, was caught up in the drama of the shootout when he lobbed the banana at Philadelphia Flyers forward Wayne Simmonds on Sept. 22.

Joseph said Moorhouse has freely confessed to throwing the fruit, which he bought at John Labatt Centre where the game was played. He had no idea that hurling bananas at black athletes could be seen as hateful or racially motivated, said Joseph in a telephone interview.

Moorhouse was officially charged Wednesday with engaging in a prohibited activity, an offence under the provincial Trespass to Property Act rather than the Criminal Code. If convicted, he faces a maximum fine of $2,000. Joseph said he will make his first court appearance on Nov. 14. THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Tyler Bozak was the 1st star of the of the first pre-season game Sept. 19.

Rash of injuries gives Bozak a shot

- Phil Kessel-Bozak pairing never produced to expectations last year
- Bozak was one of better Leafs in training camp

Tyler Bozak doesn't look at it as a shot at redemption. But he does look at it as a shot.

Bozak was back in familiar territory — if only temporarily — skating as the centre between Phil Kessel and Joffrey Lupul in practice Thursday.

A glut of injuries at centre — to Tim Connolly (upper body) and Nazem Kadri (knee), and with Matthew Lombardi not quite ready yet — forced Leafs coach Ron Wilson to reunite Kessel with Bozak.

The Leafs have also put the call out to the Marlies, with centre Mike Zigomanis expected to play for the NHL club this weekend.

"If a great player like Tim Connolly comes in and plays ahead of me, it's not really an ego deflater to me."
TYLER BOZAK ON BEING DEMOTED AFTER THE LEAFS SIGNED CONNOLLY

Much was expected of the Kessel-Bozak pairing last year. Little was produced.

"I thought he had a good year," Kessel said of Bozak. "He had a lot of good chances. If all our chances went in, then it would have been an unbelievable year."

But the line never produced, at least not up to expectations. Bozak said he lost his confidence last year, managing just 32 points in 82 games and coming in at minus-29.

"It's tough when you get down and things aren't working, you think of all the negatives," said Bozak. "But when you're feeling the puck good and things are going in, you're thinking the positives and you can't wait to play."

Bozak lost his job and was demoted to the third line when the Leafs signed Connolly.

In camp, it became obvious that to Wilson, Kadri was ahead of Bozak on the depth chart when it came to creating offence on that line. Lombardi — once he gets his legs under him — may be as well.

In fact, Bozak may well be better suited for the third line. In camp, he was one of the better Leafs, with four points in his first two games, before an injury sidelined him. He formed an effective unit alongside Colby Armstrong and, mostly, Kadri.

Lions prove it's never over

CFL EXTRA POINTS

DAN TOTH
TORONTO@METRONEWS.CA

The CFL's reputation for producing unpredictable finishes and improbable storylines has only been enhanced in 2011.

After starting the season 0-5 and triggering calls for the firing of BC Lions head coach/GM Wally Buono, who could have imagined that those same Leos would transform into the league's hottest team with five straight wins?

Fire Buono? Suddenly he's a candidate for coach of the year.

B.C. (6-6) has moved within two points of a first-place tie with Calgary and Edmonton in the West and have four of their last six games against division rivals.

The Lions should enjoy an added boost with their return to renovated B.C. Place stadium on Friday night against Edmonton in a West Division showdown. The Lions have four games down the stretch at the refurbished facility and the way things have gone, don't be surprised if they're back on the same field for the Grey Cup game Nov. 27.

Who could have imagined that storyline in July?

Maritime miscalculation:
In Atlantic Canada there is serious interest in someday bringing a CFL team to Moncton. Yet despite all the enthusiasm and good will generated, the second Touchdown Atlantic game last weekend was a bit of an embarrassment for the league and its players. While everyone involved deserves praise for staging the event, a professional football game in a stadium that barely holds 20,000 fans is hardly befitting of a league always battling to be viewed as the "big time." Last weekend's Calgary-Hamilton clash looked a little like a high school game in the undersized facility.

The league is likely to skip the Moncton game next season and return in 2013 when the Hamilton Tiger-Cats may be without a home stadium while Ivor Wynne is being replaced with a new facility on the same site. Meanwhile, an expansion franchise for the Maritimes seems light years away.

Bombers Goltz to be kidding:
It seems bad karma has put the Winnipeg Blue Bombers in their place. After blasting out of the gate at 7-1 and berating opponents, media and fans league-wide for "disrespecting" them, everything's going wrong for the once-brash Blue, including a rash if injuries.

The greatest worry in Winnipeg this year has been the precarious health of oft-injured starting quarterback Buck Pierce. Now Pierce is hampered by injured ribs, backup Alex Brink is struggling with a shoulder injury and third-string quarterback Justin Goltz is, well, a third-string quarterback nobody's ever heard of.

Goltz went 3-of-6 for 36 yards in last weekend's loss to Toronto and you can pretty much write off the Bombers' season if the offence now has to rely on his play.

REAL TESTIMONIALS
The best thing about our marriage is the friendship we have and the strong sexual drive we share. I could not understand why although I loved him very much I was not able to all the sudden have sex with him. I thought he was going to leave me. I went to see many doctors, therapists, psychologists but nothing helped. My mom suggested that I go see the shaman and it was the best thing I could have done. We now have a healthy sex life and our relationship is back to normal.

NOT SEEING THE RESULTS YOU WANT FROM YOUR ANTIDEPRESSANT?
Please consider our depression research study.

Our office is conducting a research study to evaluate whether adding an investigational medication to an approved antidepressant therapy might give relief from the symptoms of major depressive disorder (MDD) when added to a current medication.

You may be able to take part in this study if you:
- Are 18 - 65 years old,
- Have been diagnosed with Major Depressive Disorder (MDD),
- Have been experiencing symptoms of depression for at least the past 2 months,
- Have been taking at least one antidepressant medication as prescribed but it is not helping you enough.

Additional study criteria will be assessed by the study doctor.

The study lasts 15 to 22 weeks. Participants will receive either the investigational medication or a placebo (an inactive substance).

All study-related medications, office visits and examinations will be provided to you at no cost. 647-338-0369

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 You must be careful today about taking on new duties and responsibilities.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 This is by any standards one of the very best times of the year for you. Be first and be the best.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 The problem you'll be confronted with today is one you've dealt with before. Learn from the past.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 Today's Sun-Mars link could herald the start of a new and exciting phase romantically. Be passionate!

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 You seem to have a secret admirer. This can be turned to your advantage.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 The challenges ahead of you may be daunting but you will come through them all with ease.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Today, you will be happier working behind the scenes than getting up in front of lots of people.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Get together with people who share your aims and ideals to start putting your big ideas into action.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 The more you assert yourself, the more others will assume it is the natural way of things.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Today, at home and at work, you will shine like never before.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. You may be tempted to own up to an indiscretion, but is it the best decision? SALLY BROMPTON
